

Rebel Piety.

The work of the Christian Commission will not have ended with the rebellion, nor ceased when the Southern soldier has laid down his arms and returned to his home. We have the testimony of Governor Brownlow who was himself a clergyman and whose opportunities for judging were most excellent, that no set of men in the whole South did so much as the clergy to bring about the unhappy state of affairs that has existed for the last four years. And in this category he places the ministers of all denominations and even goes so far as to declare that this class of persons furnished fewer unconditional Union men than any other profession of equal numbers and intelligence. They were not only willing to drift with the crowd into secession, but often, otherwise, led it by prostituting their sacred calling to the base purposes of the fire eaters. To persons unacquainted with the delinquencies of the institution of slavery, it may seem strange that this state of things should exist, but our astonishment ceases with an intimate knowledge of the workings of the system. A code of morality that will permit the robbing of all the God-given rights of a whole race in the first place, and lead the ruling classes into practices perfectly antagonistic to every precept of holy writ in the second place—must needs revision very much, and for the first time such opportunity of revision is possible. The outward religious forms and ceremonies of the people of the South have been correct enough to all human seeming, but it has been a religious show without a good moral basis—a walking by faith that was wholly unwarrantable by right. While Jefferson Davis and Robert E. Lee could sit in their nicely cushioned pews, and amble their stereotyped prayers as they have done so constantly during these hard years through which we have just passed, many thousands of helpless Union prisoners have died for the lack of a crust of bread and a cup of cold water that by their orders might have been given them. But this they strictly refused, while pretending to worship Him who has promised a blessing upon those who offer a cup of cold water in His name. No estate officer, real or pretended, has appealed to Heaven more often and with more piousunction than the rebel chief, and his proclamations, fixing certain days for fasting and prayer, have been brimming over with Scriptural quotations and religious fervor. No man, since the rebellion broke out, has been more rigid in his observance of the rites and ceremonies of his church, or more attentive to the requirements of his creed, than he. Indeed, if we look alone at the outward observance of these things that are usually believed to indicate a religious frame of mind, the man who stood at the head of the great rebellion has a decided advantage over him whose loss has filled the nation with profound sorrow. That Jeff. stole the liver of heaven to serve the devil in, is what we sincerely believe, and the kind of religion that leads men to commit treason, murder, perjury and all the crimes in the catalogue, is not worth much in our opinion. After the death of Stonewall Jackson (who had been chiefly instrumental in clothing more northern mothers in mourning than any other man in the rebel army) Henry Ward Beecher, then editing the New York Independent, wrote an elaborate and highly eulogistic notice of the religious fanatic, speaking of him as "no longer a foe, but a rare and eminent Christian," and it may be that Mr. Beecher will be so dazzled with the religious character of Jeff. Davis that he will forgive him the nameless crimes he has committed at Libby prison and Andersonville, and after he is hung, think of him only "as a rare and eminent Christian." Common sense people who have been in the habit of regarding a reasonable share of honesty and morality as necessary ingredients in the religious character of men, will be slow to believe that a bare profession will cover the multitude of sins which have cropped out in various shapes during this civil war. And with slavery abolished, the whole society in the South will be ready to reorganize their denominational structures upon a purer and loftier basis. When children are no longer sold upon the auction block, and parents are no longer separated at the will of the owner, the marriage relation will be held more sacred among the people of color, and prostitution will be less frequent among the whites. And so we might go on to the end of the chapter and enumerate all the evils that existed under the old regime, but the others will suggest themselves to the intelligent reader. The personal and religious character of men and women of the South will hereafter be built upon an honest morality that could only exist in rare, exceptional cases so long as slavery tainted the whole atmosphere and warped the moral perceptions of the people out of line.

In the process of reconstructing those states that were recently in rebellion against the Government, the moral and religious status of Southern society ought to receive quite as much attention as the political condition of that people. They must be taught that it is nothing but perjury for a man to take an oath to support the constitution of the United States and then shoulder his musket and fight for its overthrow; they must be taught that the fruits of the spirit do not manifest themselves in deeds of cruelty that would make the devils blush, and that the morality which can sanction such deeds of cold-blood massacre as shocked the world at Fort Pillow and at Lawrence, or connived at the assassination of President Lincoln, is sadly in need of revision and improvement.

Gen. Howard is to deliver the address at the dedication of the Soldiers' Monument at Gettysburg, on the 4th of July.

From the 33d Regiment.

Editors Gazette:—Inclosed I send you a complete list of the killed and wounded of the 33d Wisconsin Infantry during the siege of Spanish Fort, the principal defense of the city of Mobile.

The Fort was invested on the 27th of March, and captured on the night of the 8th of April by a charge of the 3d Division, 10th Army Corps, Brig. Gen. Carr commanding.

The 3d brigade of this division, composed of the 8th Iowa, 108th and 124th Ill. Vols., and commanded by Col. James L. Geddes, of the 8th Iowa Vols., were the first troops ordered forward in this charge on the extreme left of the enemy's works. The 1st brigade, composed of 33d Wis., 44th Mo., 72d and 95th Ill. regiments, commanded by Col. J. B. Moore, of the 33d Wis., was next ordered forward, and also the 2d brigade composed of the 14th Wis., 81st Ill., 40th and 49th Mo. regiments, commanded by Col. L. W. Ward, of the 14th Wis. Vol.

The 33d was engaged with the enemy continually during the siege of the Fort, and on the night of the final charge was the first Wisconsin regiment to enter the rebel works.

All the ordnance, numbering 45 pieces of artillery, and ordnance stores, belonging to the Fort, with over six hundred prisoners were captured by this "Veteran Division."

Having seen an incorrect statement published in one of the Wisconsin newspapers in regard to the capture of Spanish Fort, and the number of killed and wounded of the 33d, I have taken the trouble to furnish you with the above particulars, which may be of some interest to many of your readers.

The command marched from near Blakely, Ala., on the 13th of April, resting one day on the road, arriving in this city on the 25th of April, marching two hundred miles in twelve days.

The regiment is encamped a short distance east of the city and is at present in fine health and spirits.

Gen. Beauregard came inside of our lines today. Yours &c.

Sherman and Stanton.

Unless all the reports that reach us from Washington are false, Gen. Sherman is deliberately and ostentatiously making a personal issue with the Secretary of War for an official act. He took the occasion of a grand review, ordered and held largely in his honor, and in the presence of a vast multitude assembled to rejoice in the return of peace, to refuse the hand of Mr. Stanton when tendered to him in friendly greeting. And an article published in the Washington Chronicle in his interest, and said to have been written by his brother, Senator Sherman, of Ohio, proclaims that the error of that official act, "and open upon a person's rank can shield him from such language as this." It sounds a good deal too much like the extinct and effete chivalry of South Carolina, to be tolerated among sensible and judicious men. Even if Gen. Sherman has sustained all the wrongs he seems to think have been inflicted on him, he ought to know better than to seek redress in so childish and absurd a manner. He may gratify a personal feeling of revenge, perhaps, by "insulting" Mr. Stanton, but he cannot thereby change a syllable of the record which history will make of his acts. There may have been times when blustering menaces and personal rudeness might effect the public estimate of the character of a public man; but that time has passed forever. No human being will think the better of Gen. Sherman as a soldier, for insulting Mr. Stanton, but thousands and hundreds of thousands will think less of him as a gentleman of discretion, self-reliance and good sense.—N. Y. Times.

It seems that Gen. Butler's Dutch Gap Canal has not been altogether a failure after all, for the Richmond Whig of Saturday, says that General Mulford arrived there from Fortress Monroe the previous day, having passed through Butler's Dutch Gap Canal on the steamer Clyde. This is the first steamer that has passed through.

To BE CONSOLIDATED.—After a fruitless attempt for years to publish two paying papers at Rockford, Ill., it has been abandoned, and the Democrat and Register, both weeklies, are to be consolidated. Rockford ought to sustain one good daily.

THE BELLOT JOURNAL says that the women would not exercise the right of suffrage if it were granted to them. How does it know?

Don't Disturb the Privacy of Ladies.

A Herald correspondent, writing from Fortress Monroe, gives the following interesting particulars of the capture of Davis and his party:

The ruse perpetrated by Jeff. Davis to get away from the guard, throws entirely into the shade any thing of the sort recorded. When the guard went to the occupied by defunct royalty, they were met by Mrs. Davis en disabille, with the remark, "Please, gentlemen, don't disturb the privacy of ladies before they have time to dress."

"All right, Madame," said the corporal, "we will wait till you have your duds." Presently there appeared at the door, an ostensible old lady with a bucket on her arm, escorted by Mrs. Davis and her sister.

"Please let my old mother go to the spring for some water to wash in," said Mrs. Jeff. in a pleading tone.

"It strikes me your mother wears very big boots," said the guard, as he bowed and the old lady's dress with his sabre and discovered a pair of number thirteen catkins.

"And whiskers, too," said the sergeant as he pulled the hood from her face; and lo! Jeff. Davis in all his littleness, stood before them.

A Spencer was immediately pointed to the tent and placed in duress vile.

"How are the mighty fallen!" The great leader of the Confederacy trying to escape the clutches of justice in his wife's petticoats.

One more incident is all that time and space will permit me to mention. The soldier immediately went to searching Davis, to see what valuables he could find on his person, and besides an amount of specie, found a fine silver-mounted revolver, a present from a London manufacturing company. While he was searching, Private Secretary Harrison came up, and in a very indignant tone, said:

"Ain't you ashamed to treat our President's property?"

"President," said the soldier. "What's he President of?"

The story that Jeff. Davis had with him such an enormous amount of specie is either a hoax or else he had left it behind at Washington, N. C., which is very probable. There was only about eight thousand dollars found with them, as far as was known, although several boxes have not yet been searched. They were brought along, however, and will be delivered into the hands of the authorities at Washington.

There were found upon the person of President General Regim, papers showing a large amount of specie shipped for London; all the money will also be delivered to the authorities by Colonel Pritchard.

Col. Pritchard immediately formed his lines, placing the prisoners in their own baggage and ambulances, and started for Meade. The party were all silent, but the ladies tried their skill at repeating several times, and the men started to repeat themselves to be sarcastic. Davis remarked to Col. Pritchard that, had they not been taken by surprise, they would not have surrendered without a fight.

You were in a very bad predicament to fight when I saw you, dressed in your 'duds' morning gown," drily said the Colonel, and Jeff. Davis had no more to say.

When on the road, they received a copy of President Johnson's Proclamation, offering one hundred thousand dollars reward for Davis. Col. Pritchard read it, and sent it by an orderly to Davis. He read it, and as he read he trembled, like Belsazzar, when he saw the handwriting on the wall. His hand dropped to his side, and with a groan, he let the limner of his doom fall upon the floor. His wife picked it up, read it aloud, and then the whole party burst into tears and gave vent to the most bitter lamentations.

The cavalcade, with their prisoners, arrived in Meade about three o'clock on the afternoon of the 13th inst., and Davis and his party were conveyed to the Lenoir House (then Wilson's headquarters) where a dinner was prepared for them. Arrangements were immediately made, and Col. Pritchard, with three hundred men as an escort, and the prisoners took a special train for Atlanta. All the streets and the grounds surrounding the depot, were crowded with soldiers and citizens, all anxious to get a sight at the Great Mogul whose sun had waned. We arrived at Atlanta about daylight on the morning of the 14th, where Gen. Upton had a special train and breakfast awaiting us. We were only detained at this woe-begone desolation of all destruction about one hour, when the all destruction whistle, and we were on our way again. Nothing interesting occurred until we arrived at Augusta.

Three very large crowds of citizens out to see their late President, with the exception of a few swarms of handkerchief-wielding ladies, and the doffing of hats by military officers, with a little less than fifty yards of gold lace on their soldier clothes, there was no show of sympathy for the fallen monarch. On arriving at the boat a small side-wheel steamer with no convenience, we found new accessions to our party in the persons of Vice President Andrew H. Stephens, and Gen. Joseph Wheeler and four staff officers, who had been captured by detachments of Gen. Upton's division.

I should have mentioned above that Clement C. Clay and lady joined us at Meade, having previously surrendered themselves to Gen. Wilson.

We were transferred to the steamer Empire, and again at Hilton Head to the steamer Wm. P. Clyde, and conveyed to this place by the man-of-war Tuscarora, Capt. Frailey.

When we arrived here we found that orders had been received from Washington, by the commandant of the post, to prepare accommodations for the party at this place, and while the officers in charge of the matter are awaiting replies to despatches sent to the capital, this letter goes per mail, so I am unable to inform you whether they will be detained here or go on to Washington.

A NEW METHOD OF TRAINING HORSES.—A novel and interesting exhibition of horsemanship took place in New York recently. The Times says Messrs. Rockwell and Horbut, horse-trainers, exhibited five of the horses which they have trained. They show fully the great ascendancy of mind over brute force. These horses are docile and tractable as so many lambs, following after their master as a faithful hound. Mr. Rockwell drove a beautiful span of stallions to a carriage on the track, making them trot, back, run and turn—in fact, perform all the ordinary evolutions which are necessary in driving, and this without the use of reins or bridle, or any other harness except the surcingle. They were governed entirely by the movements of the whip. They could not be frightened either by noise or obstacles.

In the days when Connecticut was largely engaged in breeding mules for the Southern market, one Isaac Tracy, who was as shrewd a Yankee as ever whittled a single, or sold a clock, stood with a South Carolinian on the steps of the Capitol, when a drove of mules passed by their southern journey. "Tracy," said the Carolinian, "there goes a company of your constituents." "Yes," was the dry retort, "they are doubtless going to South Carolina to teach school."

Col. Lubbock, of Texas, Jeff. Davis' Aid.

Francis R. Lubbock, an aid to the rebel chief Jeff., is a native of Charleston, South Carolina, and went to Texas about 1834. He was a protégé of Gen. Houston for some years, but abandoned the fortunes of his friend and set up for himself.

He resided for many years in Harris county, of which the city of Houston was county seat, and was clerk of the District Court for some years; and on account of some peculiarities in his administration of that office, received the nickname of Final Record Lubbock, which his Texas acquaintances will recognize. He has for some years been distinguished as a fierce secessionist, and was one of the original conspirators for taking Texas out of the Union. He was a member of the famous Charleston Convention which broke up the democratic party and began this war. He was elected Lieutenant-Governor in 1857, with H. R. Runnels, for Governor, and in 1861 was elected Governor and served two years, giving place to Pendleton Murrah in 1863, whose term will expire in the next November.

Lubbock, it was, who in 1862, as Governor, began a system of murder of Union men which, if not accurately known, will make mankind shudder, by declaring on the streets publicly that "any citizen of Texas who would kill a Union man, should never be heard while he was Governor." At another time he was, with mouth full of oaths, "that heretofore he had been opposed to giving passports to men wishing to go out of the country; but now he was in favor of it, and any man that wanted to leave the Confederacy should have his passport as Governor," "but," he added, sotto voce, "I know I will never get far on any passport issued here." In an official proclamation issued in February, 1862, he called upon "Texans to meet the Vandal foe," a favorite phrase with him, and let nothing but blackness and ruin meet the Vandal foe, who comes with poverty in his purse, lust in his eye, and hell in his heart." Quoting from Toombs and Cobb, of Georgia, he recommended the people to "give scope to the flames, wives and children to the charnel house, and fly with their faithful slaves to the mountains, and there share with them the last crust."

He was the most inflammatory and murderous of all his class. After he was elected Governor, he recommended his friend Kirby Smith, and served as aide-camp to Smith and Magruder, and then in April, 1864, was the staff of Dick Taylor, and is supposed to be the author of Taylor's address to his troops, in which he congratulated them on "vanquishing the cowardly Vandals" under Banks in Louisiana, and felicitated them upon garish and alligators fattening upon the carcasses of Northern men, whose rich blood had reddened the streams." It seems he has since got upon Jeff. Davis' staff, whose fit associate he is.

The Eastern and Western Armies.

The Washington correspondent of the Cincinnati Commercial has the following in relation to the late review:

"Comparisons between armies may be invidious, but it is impossible not to make them. At least, there is no man, woman or child in Washington who has not compared and thought of the difference between the army that marched up Pennsylvania avenue yesterday, and the one that was defeated at Gettysburg. It is a Western man that I write that the verdict is in favor of the army of the West was magnificent. The march of our Western boys was magnificent. It was glorious to see. Lord bless you, the boys! Lord bless you, they had marched two thousand miles in an enemy's country—why shouldn't they have made a display—grand, gloomy and peculiar, in the Capital of their country? They did it. It was a triumph for them, to-day, such as has rarely been witnessed upon the earth. The great solid masses of boys in blue, bristling with steel, moved up Pennsylvania avenue, and before the President of the United States, conquerors and the heroes of the day. And there was not an eye, loyal to the flag of the nation, that did not kindle, to see how comely and how splendid, and how admirable they were."

I looked from the front of the Treasury building, upon the 14th corps—the boys of the West, who were a wall of steel and fire at Chickamauga—and saw them fill the whole avenue, from the Capitol to the marble columns of the Treasury, and Europe never saw a grander sight, nor a braver one. It was like a mighty serpent winding in the majesty of power, on its way to the full splendor of the sun, that all day looked down upon this memorable pageant, from a sky that had not a speck of cloud to dim the brilliance of its blue—blue, the color of the boys who marched so grandly to-day under the stars, and keeping step to the music of the Union."

Bishop POTTER, (Episcopal) of New York, has issued a pastoral letter to his clergy and diocese, retracting and apologizing for his own action in admitting the priests of the Russian and Greek Church to perform the rites and ceremonies of public worship in Episcopal edifices, and condemning all admission of non-Episcopal clergy in the future to Episcopal pulpits. His letter intimates that while there are some Episcopalians who would be willing to see these exceptions, instances become the established rule, the majority of Episcopalians would be greatly shocked by so manifest a departure from the canons of the Episcopal Church.

The Sandusky Register is informed that Johnson's Island has been selected as the prison where all the rebel officers who are refused to accept amnesty on the terms prescribed by President Johnson's new proclamation can be made of them. Johnson's Island is one of the best situated prisons in the United States, it being easy of access, hard to escape from, and in a most healthy and pleasant location.

CITY NOTICES.

Setting Machines.—Of the many inventions and improvements of sewing-machines, none have so satisfactorily stood the test of time and service as Grover & Baker's. They have taken the highest premiums at the recent State Fairs of fifteen States; they have, moreover, received the warmest encomiums from all persons who have ever used the machines, and those who have had opportunities to compare the different styles of machines, generally prefer Grover & Baker's to any other. They do the work neatly and well, do not get out of order, and are readily adapted to any kind of sewing. We would advise our lady readers, who are in want of a sewing-machine, to call at Grover and Baker's.—Brooklyn Standard.

CULTIVATOR OF CORN.—The large amount of corn to be planted this season, renders it necessary for the producer to have some improved implement for its cultivation. To meet this demand, I am now building "The Badger State" gig corn planter.

After six months experimenting with different models, we have one which we are willing should be put to the test, and that it should stand or fall on its own merits. A lengthy description does not seem to be necessary. We will simply say that we are confident it will perform all that any cultivator will, and all that any farmer will require of it. It has six shovels, or four, as desired. The shovels are so arranged as to cultivate wide or narrow, shallow or deep, and they all have a very easy side motion. To say that they are made under the supervision of G. F. Lane, is a sufficient guarantee that they will be well made. In fact, they will be warranted in every respect.

The Badger State gig cultivator will be sold this season at $50 at the shop.

Call and see it at the shop one block south of the Hyatt House.

MORRELL'S ELECTRIC MAGNETIC FLUID.—It has been a settled scientific fact that disease is the result of the disturbance of the magnetic forces of the system. That being the case, the natural conclusion would necessarily be, that that which will restore a perfect circulation must be a specific. This electric magnetic fluid effects, on applying it simply to the surface. Its powers are truly marvelous. It is indicated in all cases when there is a lack of magnetic circulation, such as rheumatism, neuralgia, palsy, bronchitis, consumption, stiff limbs, swollen joints, spasms, cramp, fits, deafness, sore eyes, scrofula, syphilis, cancers, white swelling, prostatic and other female diseases, &c. Morrell's Magnetic Fluid is highly recommended for the cure of cuts, bruises, old sores and burns. If applied to a burn immediately, it will stop it from blistering, and take out the fire at once.

Prepared by Richard and Morrell, Chicago, Illinois. For sale by E. F. Colwell, G. R. Curtis, E. Rider & Son, and C. B. Colwell, Janesville, Wisconsin.

A HINT TO BOTH SEXES.—How TO GAIN AND RETAIN AFFECTION.—It has frequently been suggested that Plantation Bitters are, in another form, the "Elixir of Love" of the Ancients. That they do much to "quicken" family jars, and reconcile fretful wives to their husbands, we verily believe. When domestic quiet is restored and conjugal felicity reigns supreme,

"How great the charm, how sweet the bliss That dwells in a kind heart."

A free and proper use of Plantation Bitters will inspire the souls of both sexes with pure and high-toned sentiments of affection, and a capacity for rare and exquisite enjoyment in each other's society. Remember there is no place like home, and no passion like love—and nothing to link the two together and you to both like the great Family Blessing—Plantation Bitters.

Human Teeth.

Carries of the teeth through three distinct stages.

FIRST STAGE.

It usually commences in the denture, beneath the enamel, and is first indicated by a small lesion colored which when at length the enamel breaks through leaving a cavity, giving rise to pain, headache, and fever, and sometimes to delirium, and in some cases to death. The patient is usually very nervous, and expresses the wish to have the tooth extracted. The dentist should not yield to this wish, but should extract the tooth with the greatest care, and

then fill the socket with a good filling, and

the patient will be cured.

SECOND STAGE.

Now the decay has exposed the pulp of the nerve, the patient is afflicted with the toothache, jumping through the pain is so intense that the patient is unable to do any work. The patient is usually very nervous, and expresses the wish to have the tooth extracted.

The dentist should not yield to this wish, but should

extract the tooth with the greatest care, and

then fill the socket with a good filling, and

the patient will be cured.

THIRD STAGE.

Now the inflammation has reached the end of the fang of the tooth, the patient is afflicted with the toothache, and the patient is usually very nervous, and expresses the wish to have the tooth extracted.

The dentist should not yield to this wish, but should

extract the tooth with the greatest care, and

then fill the socket with a good filling, and

the patient will be cured.

SIX YEAR MOLARS.

During the sixth year of the child's life, the first large molar appears, and is usually very large, and is usually very strong, and is usually very healthy, and is usually very long, and is usually very strong, and is usually very healthy, and is usually very long, and is usually very strong, and is usually very healthy, and is usually very long, and is usually

The Noted Analytical Physician,

DR. V. CLARENCE PRICE.
The only Physician of his kind in the West, has met with the greatest success, gained a better reputation, effected more cures, and has been visited by the longest without missing an engagement, than any physician that travels, has enticed them all and become noted for his skill in treating all chronic diseases of the head, nerves, kidneys, bladder, womb and blood, affections of the urinary organs, gravel, scorbut, rheumatism, catarrh, scalds, bronchitis, dyspepsia, &c.

Our practice, not one of experiments, but of twenty years standing, founded on the laws of Nature, with not tear down, make sick to make well, no harsh treatment, no trifling, no flustering. We know the cause and the remedy needed, no guesswork, but knowledge gained by years of experience in the treatment of these diseases exclusively, no encouragement without a prospect. Could in our opinions, reasonable in our charge, claim not to know everything, or cure everybody, but to claim to reason and common sense. We invite the sick, no matter what their ailment, to call, investigate before they abandon hope.
